General Mental Health Resources

The Veterans Affairs Health Care Providers webpage features key tools to support the mental health services you provide to Veterans. You can find information on connecting with VA, understanding military culture and experience, as well as tools for working with a variety of mental health conditions. Visit their website.

The Department of Defense (DoD) has made it a priority for health professionals to implement evidence-based Clinical Practice Guidelines (CPGs) to improve and standardize the quality of care provided to its beneficiaries. CPGs contain recommendations based on evidence from a systematic review and synthesis of published medical literature. CPGs can improve the quality of clinical decisions. If carefully followed and implemented under the right circumstances, CPGs can further benefit health professionals by:

- Offering clear recommendations for practitioners who are uncertain about how to proceed.
- Providing a more rational basis for referral.
- Promoting efficient use of resources.
- Providing authoritative recommendations that reassure practitioners about the appropriateness of their treatment decisions.
- Improving the consistency of care.

The National Center for PTSD offers a PTSD Consultation Program for providers who treat veterans. Any provider, including non-Veterans Affairs employees, who treats Veterans with PTSD can ask a question or request consultation about PTSD-related issues. Consultation is free. Suicide Risk Management Consultation Program for providers who service veterans. The Rocky Mountain MIRECC offers free consultation for any provider (community as well as VA) who works with Veterans.
